

Pittsburgh Presbytery has adopted a call to legislators to act on behalf of preserving voter rights for all legal voters. The resolution notes that several states have begun enacting legislation that makes it more difficult for those with limited means to vote. The full text of this Call to Action is posted on the Pittsburgh Presbytery Website at <https://www.pghpresbytery.org/wp-content/uploads/2022/07/Bulletin-insert-on-voting-rights.pdf>.

Providing for equal access to the ballot box for all eligible voters is a faith concern for people who believe that every human being is made equally in God's image. Jesus rebukes his disciples for preventing "the little ones" from gaining access to him, thus teaching that everyone great and small is equally privileged in God's kingdom (Matthew 19:13-15). In Matthew 25:31-46 Jesus equates the welcome we give to the poor and vulnerable with welcoming him personally.

Any legislation that makes it more difficult for people to vote if they are economically disadvantaged runs contrary to biblical teaching. The church of Jesus has no option but to stand up for just treatment of every person.

If you would like to let legislators know how you feel about voting rights, please contact your state officials at www.legis.state.pa.us, your federal representatives at www.house.gov/resrepresentatives, and your U.S. senators at www.senate.gov/senators.

Pittsburgh Presbytery has adopted a call to legislators to act on behalf of preserving voter rights for all legal voters. The resolution notes that several states have begun enacting legislation that makes it more difficult for those with limited means to vote. The full text of this Call to Action is posted on the Pittsburgh Presbytery Website at <https://www.pghpresbytery.org/wp-content/uploads/2022/07/Bulletin-insert-on-voting-rights.pdf>.

Providing for equal access to the ballot box for all eligible voters is a faith concern for people who believe that every human being is made equally in God's image. Jesus rebukes his disciples for preventing "the little ones" from gaining access to him, thus teaching that everyone great and small is equally privileged in God's kingdom (Matthew 19:13-15). In Matthew 25:31-46 Jesus equates the welcome we give to the poor and vulnerable with welcoming him personally.

Any legislation that makes it more difficult for people to vote if they are economically disadvantaged runs contrary to biblical teaching. The church of Jesus has no option but to stand up for just treatment of every person.

If you would like to let legislators know how you feel about voting rights, please contact your state officials at www.legis.state.pa.us, your federal representatives at www.house.gov/resrepresentatives, and your U.S. senators at www.senate.gov/senators.

